DR. AND MRS. FRED. LEIX ABROAD.

Write About their Travels in the Countries of the Old World.

Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Leix, accompanied by their little son, Freddy, who left here last August for a trip through the Eastern states and a tour of the Old World have not forgotten Sonoma. Under date of November 13th the Dr. writes to the editor of this paper from Klostereichenbach, Wurttemberg, Germany, where he was born and spent his boyhood days, as follows:

Klostereichenbach, Wurttemberg
H. H. Granice Esq.

Dear Friend—We have reached at last the home of my boyhood days, where I resided until I reached the age of 16. The old village looks natural, the old church and schoolhouse and the old residences as well as the black pine forest also looked natural to me but the faces had faded from memory. Every one was a stranger to me, they told me (the old timers) stories of long ago. No one of course was able to recognize me and had it not been for their knowledge of my arrival I certainly would have been a stranger to them. I sent you a card from New York, where we embarked for Glasgow, Scotland, on the 13th of Sept. and arrived Sept. 21st, 8 days on the water. We had a fine trip. I never missed a meal but my wife had a rather hard time of it, seasick nearly every day. Freddie stood it fine. The ship pitched very little and it seemed more like a trip on the ferryboat than on the ocean. We sailed further north than they had been accustomed to for a year or more, reached Scotland or rather Ireland, the town of Moville where they took the train for Londonderry, after which after leaving Moville we sailed up the "Clyde" river, a beautiful stream with picturesque scenery. I never expected to see such a fine country. It is indeed "Bonny Scotland." The buildings are stone structures altogether and of a uniform size. We passed the greatest ship building yards in the world going towards Glasgow. We stayed in Glasgow two days, a smoky city of about 1,000,000 inhabitants of no great interest to the traveler, except their factories which are numerous. We arrived on Sunday, a bad day to arrive in Scotland, as everything is closed and tight. You see no smiling faces on this day but they make up for it on week days, for the Scotchman is a jolly fellow. Lager beer is scarce. They all drink ale and porter, a drink we couldn't accustom ourselves to. The eating is fine, at about the same price as in California. From Glasgow we went to Edinburgh, a beautiful, clean city and full of interest to the tourist, the parks and castles and Holyroot palace, all of which we visited as well as a fine art gallery. It is a hilly city. Two days in Edinburgh ended our stay. From thence we went to the country of Sir Walter Scott, as well as the homes of the relatives of Mrs. Leix, who are manufacturers of the famous Scotch tweed cloth, which we saw manufactured from the beginning of washing the wool to the wrapping up of the finished pattern of cloth. It certainly was of great interest to us and we had never seen anything like it before. We were entertained royally. The coachman who drove us from the station to the home was in livery and you could hardly turn around for servants. Their homes are like small castles and they all seem to take great interest in oil paintings and their homes are miniature art galleries. We spent about two weeks in this atmosphere of plenty and it seemed as if we were eating all the day long, 8:30 breakfast, 1 p. m lunch, 5 o'clock tea, 7:30 dinner and something before retiring The Scotchman is as particular about his teas as the German about his beer or the Frau about her coffee. The principal points of interest here were, besides the fine scenery, the home of Sir Walter Scott "Abottsford," as well as Doyburgh and Melrose Abbeys, famous in the works of Sir Walter Scott. We saw the place where the Lay of the Last Minstrel originated and up the Yarrow river viewed wild pheasants as well as deer and other game in great number. The hunting of course is for the rich only. Freddie was with us everywhere and stood it fine, though at times a little tired.

After a stay of two weeks we travelled to London, (an all day journey by fast express), a beautiful city with its castles, palaces, ancient towers, churches, art galleries, the finest in the world, as well as the British Museum, also beautiful parks. This is a military city as well as country, the red coat being in evidence everywhere. They have, I think, the finest police in the world. I did not see an Irishman on the force. They are all of large stature and politeness personified. The uniform of the Highland guards is a sight of itself, a costume they all like to perpetuate. The hospitals are about like ours. I saw some excellent work in surgery as well as poor and in one hospital I saw the use of the old fashioned sponge which no surgeon uses in America. The English people are a fuic lot, courteous to the stranger. Their ways are about like ours and they dress and eat well here. Five o'clock teas of course as in Scotland. I also visited the factory where they cut diamonds, a sight you seldom see outside Holland. Meals on the whole cheaper than in the States. Beer is scarce as in Scotland. They are all fond of that ale which tastes to me like stale steam. After a stay of two weeks we left for Paris at 10 a. m., crossed the Channel in three hours and arrived in Paris about 6 p. m.

Now we are getting into a different atmosphere altogether and permit me to tell you that anyone who has not seen Paris has missed half of his life. The people are of a class by themselves. They originate here, walk different, dress different, eat different, are politer than any race of peopie on earth. Two weeks in Paris and not a drunken man or woman did I see on the street. Ladies and gentlemen dine and wine, as well as beer, in the open on the sidewalk and you will not see a "longhair" unless you go to the Latin quarters and they are usually artists and drink anything that comes along.

In beautiful imagery the saving truths are given to us as well as in the accents of sterner widsom. God in a variety of ways seeks to woo the wayward son I say son because there is no sex in heaven or in the things that are eternal. "Who shall ascend into the hill of the Lord" is a question that is followed by an answer that everyone should know.

Religion is not a philosophy, nor is it a set of accommodating opinions. It is not a treatment of God, or angels, or saints, but a practice of the truth—a treatment of your neighbor whether he is nice or ugly.

Sonoma Y. P. S. C. E. will meet at 6:30 p. m., Miss Soderberg will be the leader.

Boost the Grammar School Bond Election Proposition.

The time for the Grammar School bond election is drawing near. But two weeks will elapse between now and election day. Therefore we would say to the men and women voters of the district do not lose sight of that fact and get in and boost the bonds up to the very hour when the polls will have closed on Saturday, December 20th.

Beautifying the Plaza and The Club Women of Sonoma

We are pleased to note that the club women of this city, acting upon a suggestion made through the editorial columns of the Index-Tribune some months ago, have taken up the matter of beautifying Sonoma's historical Plaza for 1915. With this object in view a committee of club women consisting of Mesdames Amelia Bates, Lulu Emparan, Zoe Bates, Carrie Burlingame and A. Adler, waited upon the City Trustees last Tuesday evening and asked the co-operation of its members in a movement to beautify the Plaza. The ladies were very enthusiastic, with the result that the Trustees passed a resolution to call a mass meeting in the City Hall on Wednesday evening, December 19th, for the purpose of inviting a free discussion of the matter and devising ways and means of carrying out the worthy project.

The members of the Sonoma Valley Woman's Club during the past year or two have made some splendid improvements on the Plaza in the shape of lawns, fountains, etc., and it is to finish up the work so nobly begun that the meeting in question has been called. It therefore behooves every citizen of both town and valley to get together on that occasion and boost the proposition along, to the end that when the influx of the Exposition visitors flock to this State from the four quarters of the globe, many of whom will wend their way hither to take in our historical plaza and other places of note here, to beautify it that it may be in keeping with the handsome City Hall that occupies its center.

That this will be done goes without the saying, now that the Woman's Club has taken up the matter. Therefore we say, all hail to the club women for what they have done in the past and what they will accomplish in the future toward making Sonoma a city beautiful.

Prosperous California

A dispatch from Sacramento under date of December 2nd says: "The California property owners paid taxes amounting to $38,696,140 for the support and maintenance of the fifty-eight counties of the State for the fiscal year 1913. This includes $1,244,755 for the Panama-Pacific Exposition. These figures are made from a statement issued by State Controller Chambers today.

"This is an increase of $6,275,479 over 1912. The property valuation on which this tax is based, was $2,963,970,539, as compared to $2,462,178,042 in 1912, representing a gain in property valuation in a single year of $501,529,497. Chambers says this shows a most remarkable growth and development of the State.

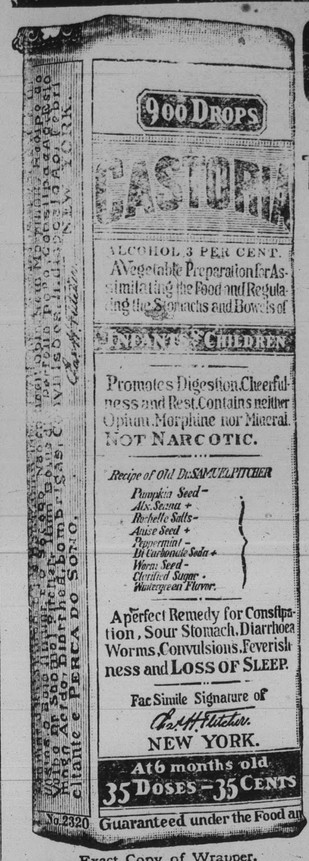

New Agricultural Industry For Northern California

By mere chance it has been discovered that cotton can be grown successfully in Northern California, and perhaps even as well as in the Imperial Valley in the Southland.

To John Curran, an employe of the Southern Pacific Company, goes the credit of the discovery that has already prompted Northern agriculturists to further the experiment. Curran has charge of the railroad pumping station at Roseville, which is about 107 miles from San Francisco. A car of cotton from the South was sidetracked near Roseville, when Curran happened along, picked up a handful of seed from curiosity. Curran is a man with a hobby, if so it may be called. He wants to settle on a farm some day and be a producer; that's what he is saving for. And while he is working and saving he is utilizing all the available space about the station for garden purposes.

He decided to experinment with the cotton seed and was surprised later when he noted how it flourished. The plants grew and grew and the bolls popped wide open. Just now the cotton is so heavy that the vines are bending under the weight.

Ranchers and others heard of his success and have already contracted for seed. As a result, Northern California may get a comparatively big crop next season, for the Southern Pacific has offered to cooperate with the growers in every manner possible to insure a good growth. It is only four years ago that the cotton crop of Imperial Valley was but one hundred bales. This year, it is one hundred thousand bales, and next year will be even larger. No one knows what the possibilities are in the North.

Messrs. James L. Modini and Victor Beretta, two of Sonoma's tourists, spent the week end in the Bay City. They returned Monday evening. Some one said they were chasing Cupid, but that is not so. It was only high balls they were after.

John Picetti, the genial President of the Sonoma Valley Furniture Co., was somewhat startled last Monday morning when a prominent citizen of Vineburg entered the store and wanted fifty cents worth of garlic seed, but John found out after a while that the man wanted China lillies. One on Vineburg.

GLEN ELLEN NEWS.

The roads in and around Glen Ellen are being put in shape. The Glen's Xmas present I guess.

The frame work has been completed on the round house which is being erected here by the N. W. P. R. R.

Five new summer c ttages are to be erected on the "Harry's Inn" grounds this spring. Who says the old town is not booming?

Don Guy, our local builder who recently met with an accident, is able to be around again. Dr. Frances never keeps his patients on the sick list long.

Work will start sometime this month on the new buildings of the Sonoma state home. Close to $100,000 will be spent and Dr. Dawson will rush the work in order to have everything in readiness by next fall

Dr. G orge O'Donnell is making extensive improvements on his forty summer cottages. He has had hot and cold water and baths installed in each cottage, painting in and outside and new roofing put on. He expects to have them rented to city families who come to this place each summer for their vacation.

Th "Xmas Tree Ball" at Harry's Inn will be held on Saturday evening, Dec. 20th, and every one will receive an Xmas present. Bailey's band will render all the popular music and the price of admission will be the same as befor , 25 cents. Dinner will be extra. Joe Trusty has charge of the range and we all know he's some cook. There will be a Jumbo Xmas tree on the stage filled with good things for all—free. Julius Pancrazi will act as floor manager.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL BOND ELECTION

"Booster" Answers the Arguments of the "Knocker."

Regarding the plans of the new school building favored by the Trustees, we are told in all seriousness by the knocker that the rooms are too small, where in fact they are considerable larger than the largest of the present building which the knocker tells us is "good enough for them kids." The rooms are of the size that experience has proven to be right, lighting and other very important points being taken under consideration. If the room is too large the teacher has difficulty in getting attention and controlling her pupils There is a limit both ways on a size of a room—it can be too large as well as too small. He tells us that it is all wrong to bring the light in from only one side of the room when as a matter of fact all modern school buildings are built with this very aim in view—bringing the light in from one side, and that on the pupils left, so as to avoid the cross lights, very injurious to the eyes, that come from admitting the light from two or more sides. He certainly is up on school room lighting.

He again tells us that the present janitor is paid $20 or $25 per month, while in truth she is paid the sum of $15 per month and furthermore we are told that the janitor in the new building would be paid 60 or 70 dollars per month, which is absurd. The half of it will more than pay for the work for a good many years to come.

We are told by the knocker that when the new building is up we will immediately put in two or three more teachers and that, we are told, would mean heavy, heavy taxes on the district. The facts are that teachers in grammar schools are paid out of the funds from State and county and mostly from the former, $550 of each teacher's salary. This State fund was created by the sale of public school lands given the State when she was admitted into the Union and is not raised by taxation. The number of teachers for a school is determined by the attendance, one for every 35 units of attendance and a fraction of not less than 10. As the attendance increases the State allows the school more money—about $32 for each pupil per year, so that when the new teacher is added the money is there to pay her and it does not come from special local tax in grammar schools. These are given as fair samples of the arguments of the opposition.

What do you think of them, Mr. Voter?

How to Detect the Alum Baking Powder

"Which are the alum baking powders; how can I avoid them unless they are named?" asks a housekeeper.

Here is one way: take the can of a low-priced powder in your hand and read the ingredient clause upon the back label. The law requires that if the powder contains alum that fact must be there stated. If you find one of the ingredients named alum, or sulphate of aluminum, you have found an alum baking powder.

There is another and a better way. You don't have to know the names of the alum powders. Use Royal Baking Powder only; that assures you a cream of tartar powder, and the purest and most healthful baking powder beyond question.
